VOTERS CAST DIE Taft Halts Stassen's March; Lausche Trounces Party Man

Local Primary Highlighted By Sheriff's Runaway Race

Radcliff Wins Easily Commission Test Drums Interest

Pickaway County's primary election Tuesday was highlighted by the runaway race staged by Sheriff Charles Radcliff who led his Democrat opponent, Ralph Wallace, by an unofficial 652 votes.

The sheriff and county commissioner races were the only two contested offices among the 19 local posts to be filled in November.

Board of election figures revealed 4,098 total votes were cast in Tuesday's primaries. Heavy rains which drove the farmers from their fields was believed to have given an additional boost to the final tabulations, although the total was far less than the 6,500 ballots cast in the 1940 primary.

While considerable interest in the county was centered around the two vacant seats in the county commissioner's office, only Clarence Helvering and William J. Goode, both Democrats, provided a scrap within the ranks.

VOTERS DO OWN THINKING Localites Show They Like Lausche, Ignore Stassen

Pickaway County's balloting Tuesday indicated two vitally important political philosophies:

(A) Former Governor Frank J. Lausche is a popular man in this territory despite the Republican "machine" opposition to his candidacy; and (B) this area wants little to do with former Minnesota Gov. Harold Stassen.

Lausche, who polled 1,802 Democratic ballots Tuesday, stood head and shoulders above his three competitors, drew six times the amount of support given the party man, Ray T. Miller, and at the same time garnered more votes than all three Republican candidates combined including Gov. Thomas Herbert.

Pickaway Countians had but two chances to show preference between Ohio's favorite son for the presidency, Sen. Robert A. Taft, and Stassen. That was by voting for the "single-shot" delegate - at-large, Carrington T. Marshall, and his alternate, Rufus S. Day Jr. Both men ended up tenth in their respective fields of 10 candidates. Neither was anywhere near the lowest-ranking Taft candidate.

Ex-Governor Gives Miller 3-1 Defeat

Drizzle Cuts Total Count

COLUMBUS, May 5 — Former Gov. Frank J. Lausche swept virtually every one of Ohio's 88 counties to take a lead of almost three to one over Ray T. Miller for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination today.

Again cashing in on his appeal to the independent voter, the bushy-haired Lausche polled 190,424 votes to 72,501 for the former Cleveland mayor in returns from 6,207 of the state's 9,385 polling places.

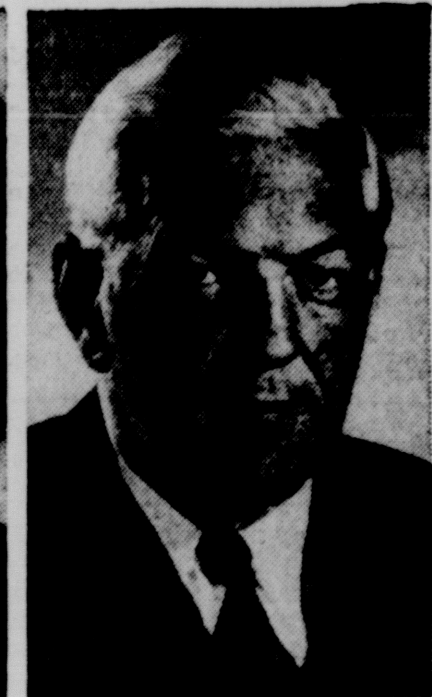

Miller had the backing of the party organization and the CIO's Political Action Committee.

Gov. Thomas J. Herbert, the man who dethroned Lausche two years ago, meanwhile had an easy time of it in winning renomination on the Republican ticket over the futile challenges of two minor opponents.

The partial results were considered far more conclusive in the state races than they were in the battle for presidential delegates.

Ohioan Cops 14 Out Of 23 Contests

Senator's Stock Now Booming

COLUMBUS, May 5 — Sen. Robert A. Taft was the winner today in 14 of 23 Republican delegate races Harold E. Stassen contested with the Ohioan in Tuesday's primary.

Practically complete returns showed Stassen the victor in nine contests. One of Stassen's men—in the Ninth (Toledo) district—won by only 52 votes on the basis of complete unofficial returns.

Thus Taft will go to next month's GOP convention at Philadelphia with 44 of Ohio's 53 delegates. He possibly could pick up a ninth district spot when official returns are completed several days from now.

Stassen entered two delegates in each of 11 congressional districts in a tradition-breaking invasion of another candidate's home state. Thus Taft took 30 delegates without a contest.

Here Is How Pickaway County Voted Tuesday

Following are tabulations showing how voters of Pickaway County cast their ballots in Tuesday's primary election. The breakdown includes only offices in which there was a contest. Many offices, especially local ones, went through the primary poll with only one candidate listed.

3-Point Plan Offered Zoning Panel Tells Council Program

Circleville city council Tuesday night was presented a three-point program and a recommendation schedule by the city planning commission in its first report to council since its authorization Feb. 6.

James Yost, citizens' chairman of the seven-man group, outlined three basic requirements before the commission can take any further steps.

He asked first for the establishment of a fund, estimated at $100, to be used by the commission for operating expenses; second, a supply of up-to-date maps of Circleville; and third, authorization to engage out-of-town assistance on the preliminary steps to be taken by the commission.

Yost recommended council to consider an ordinance which would divide Circleville into sections for business, industry, residential, factory and multiple-unit zones.

Veto Retention Wanted In UN, Marshall Says

WASHINGTON, May 5—Secretary of State Marshall told Congress today that the United States favors retention of the veto in the United Nations to prevent the use of American troops without America's consent.

Marshall advised the House foreign affairs committee that while the United States favors an amelioration of the big powers' veto in certain circumstances, the government does not favor its elimination.

Marshall's statement of American policy came following a discussion of the feasibility of replacing the veto power by a two-thirds vote of the UN Security Council on important matters.

The secretary emphasized also that the United States is opposed to a political "balance of power" alignment of nations to maintain the peace.

He added:

Kids To Get Old Bessie Council OKs Fire Truck Transfer

"Old Bessie", Circleville's aged firewagon, has been saved from the junk heap and soon will adorn the kiddie's section of Ted Lewis park resplendent in a new coat of bright red paint, steering wheel, bell, or everything to make a kid's eyes pop.

While city council is not always gifted with a deep feeling of generosity, the four members who were present Tuesday night when a vote was taken gave a unanimous nod toward the safety director to sell "Bessie" for $1 and nominal costs to the Circleville Child Study Club.

Mrs. Charles Kirkpatrick led a delegation of six women into the council chambers and spoke in their behalf.

In her appearance before the solons, Mrs. Kirkpatrick said, "We want clean, wholesome, fun-making recreation for the children at the city park."

Allen Is Clearcut Victor In Race For Congress

The Democratic nomination race for 11th district representative to Congress in Tuesday's primary gave Joseph C. Allen a clear-cut majority in three counties of the five-county district over his opponent, Rex Edwin Haacker.

The Pickaway County delegate, Haacker, polled a sweeping majority in his home county and eked out a lead of 49 votes in Hocking County. Allen's three county support gave him a 555 vote majority.

Although these returns were unofficial, they were complete and by noon Wednesday it seemed certain it would be Allen who would oppose Walter Brehm, Republican incumbent, in November's election.

Brehm's primary election opponent, Ralph Terrell, found little support in Pickaway County where he polled 202 compared to Brehm's 948.

In the district, Allen nabbed 4987 unofficial votes and Haacker supporters rallied with 4432 votes. In Pickaway County, Haacker received 1041 votes and Allen 592.

British Capture Arab Area In Ancient City

JERUSALEM, May 5—British troops smashed into an Arab area of Jerusalem and "neutralized" it today after nightlong sniping.

This latest action in Jerusalem proper took place coincident with fierce new Arab attacks on Jewish colonies in the Hebron hills about 10 miles south of Jerusalem.

Jewish sources said that eight Jews were killed and 21 wounded. Arab casualties were reported heavy and 22 Arab armored vehicles were knocked out of action.

A British army spokesman said the Jerusalem action was necessary because Arabs in the sector fired into British army headquarters windows during the night.

Railroad Strike Crisis Handed To White House

WASHINGTON, May 5 — The railroad strike crisis officially was turned over to the White House today for action to avert a scheduled walkout of 150,000 engineers, firemen and switchmen next Tuesday.

Frank Douglass, chairman of the National Mediation Board, and Francis A. O'Neill, board member, conferred for an hour and a half with Dr. John R. Steelman, assistant to the President, who conducted top-level peace talks in a similar 1946 rail dispute.

The two mediators reported to Steelman on the unsuccessful conferences held in Chicago the past week with the carriers and the three railroad unions which failed to settle the wage dispute.

Douglass told newsmen after the meeting: "We gave Dr. Steelman a full report on the situation. The dispute is out of our hands now unless we are asked to get back into it for some reason."

The mediation board chairman declined to say what new moves were contemplated in the rail crisis or comment on the possibility of government seizure of the carriers.

Belgium Chief Quits Position

LONDON, May 5—Reuters reported from Brussels tonight that Regent Prince Charles has accepted the resignation of Premier Paul-Henri Spaak in a governmental crisis over Catholic schools.

Spaak was said to have submitted his resignation to the prince after the Socialists rejected the government's compromise on state subsidies for Catholic schools.

Oleo Bill Faces Test In Senate

WASHINGTON, May 5 — The House-passed bill repealing federal taxes on margarine faces a test in the Senate today.

Senators from butter-producing states are confident they have the votes to send the measure to the agriculture committee for hearings.

Cotton-state senators, interested because cottonseed oil is used in margarine, are fighting to have the bill sent to the finance committee, which handles tax legislation.

The Southern senators fear that the agriculture group will attach amendments which might "discriminate" against margarine as much as they consider that the special tax does.

They are afraid also that the agriculture committee might sidetrack the whole bill.

Sen. Aiken, (R) Vt., predicted that the Senate will pass legislation repealing the tax but carrying amendments requiring "identification" of margarine, perhaps by coloring it a deeper yellow than butter.

Truman's Goose Cooked. Claim

MOBILE, Ala., May 5—Alabama Democratic Chairman Gessner T. McCord believes today that President Truman's "goose is cooked as far as Alabama is concerned."

McCord made the prediction here last night after early tabulations indicated that all the leading electors were anti-Truman. He said:

"I believe this trend will hold and when the final results are in, the 11 men who do the voting will be pledged to vote for someone other than Truman."

Truman May OK A-Panel Terms

WASHINGTON, May 5—Sen. Taft, (R) Ohio, declared today he probably would favor a two-year extension of the terms of atomic commission members if that is the "general decision" of the Republican leadership.

Taft announced that the controversy over President Truman's renomination of David E. Lilienthal for a five-year term as atomic chairman, and the renomination of other commission members was discussed at a Republican policy committee meeting this morning.

Pupils Threaten Protest Strike

AKRON, May 5—Pupils of nearby Copley high school threatened to picket the school today in an effort to enforce a strike called in protest of the school board's failure to rehire Frank Weiss as principal.

At a meeting last night when the strike was called by nearly two-thirds of the students of the school, one of the leaders said: "We plan to throw a picket line around the building tomorrow and permit only teachers and lower grade pupils to enter." There are about 300 enrolled in grades seven through 12.

Weiss was dismissed, it was reported, "for lack of planning and unity and lack of leadership in both pupil and teacher contacts."

Truman Holding Condon Letter

WASHINGTON, May 5—A government official revealed today that the FBI's highly confidential loyalty report on Dr. Edward U. Condon has been transferred from the Commerce department to the White House.

A top Commerce official said that the letter was taken to the White House April 27 at the "specific instructions of President Truman."

Dealer Sentenced

CLEVELAND, May 5—Jack Singleton, Cleveland used-car dealer who mulcted would-be buyers of nearly one million dollars, was sentenced today to a minimum of 10 years in Ohio state penitentiary.

Kiernan's ONE MAN'S OPINION

There is news of a Danish sailor who lived 111 years as a bachelor. Then he married and was dead at 140. Let this be a lesson to all single men.

Actually they don't know whether he lived that long because he was a Dane, a sailor or a bachelor. And until we find out we will continue to issue marriage licenses to reckless young men.

All I know is that 29 years of married life and he was snapped into his shroud—just when he was going good.

There's no telling how long he might have gone on had he stalled off the bridal march for another 50 or 60 years.

But this should settle the question of whether or not a man can live alone and like it. For the first 111 years the answer is "yes."

crats were renominated without opposition, while the other five Republicans and one Democrat held early leads over their opponents.

Ballot counting was exceptionally slow because of unusually heavy county and local tickets.

Secretary of State Edward J. Hummel, Cincinnati Republican and the only incumbent official on the non-judicial ticket besides Herbert with intra-party opposition, also won renomination easily. He snowed under the challenge of Ted W. Brown, of Columbus.

Lt. Gov. Paul M. Herbert of Columbus, Treasurer Don H. Ebricht of Akron, Attorney General Hugh S. Jenkins of Youngstown, and Congressman-at-large George H. Bender, all Republicans, and Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson of Barberton, Democrat, were all unopposed for renomination but received large complimentary votes from their parties.

ROGER W. TRACY, Columbus accountant and his party's 1944 nominee, won the GOP bid for auditor to oppose Ferguson in November. He defeated Frank B. Thomas, also of Columbus.

On the judicial ticket, Judge James Garfield Stewart of Cincinnati won an uncontested renomination to a four-year unexpired term on the supreme court and so far is unopposed for reelection in either party.

Judge Robert M. Sohngen, Hamilton Democrat, also won an uncontested nomination to the high court, while Judge Edward C. Turner, Columbus Republican, disposed of the primary challenge of Alfred C. Jones of Cleveland with a two-to-one victory.

The hottest Republican race was for the supreme court nomination to face Judge Sohngen in November. Henry K. Middleton, Toledo, held a narrow margin over Kingsley A. Taft, Cleveland. They were followed by Clinton D. Boyd, Middletown; Guy B. Findley of Elyria, and G. K. Allen of Cleveland in that order.

Security Parley For Ohio Called

COLUMBUS, May 5—Governor Herbert has called a conference on national security for May 18. Acting in conjunction with the Columbus Army Advisory Committee, Herbert said the meeting would be held in the Ohio State university chapel.

Presiding over the discussion will be Dr. Daniel A. Poling, a member of President Truman's advisory committee which wrote the Compton report on national defense.

An invitation to attend was extended to educators, clergymen and community leaders throughout the state.

Woman Driver Is Fined $50 After Mishap

A 31-year-old Columbus woman received a total fine of $50 and costs Tuesday in mayor's court for failing to stop after an accident and failure to produce a driver's license on request.

She was identified as Mrs. Esther Mae Green of 55 Daring Road, and she was driving the car owned by Mrs. Gertrude Barrett, also of Columbus.

Police were told Tuesday that the car driven by Mrs. Green was following the car of Charles Arledge, an attendant of the Crites South End filling station, south on Court street.

After passing the railroad tracks, police said the Columbusite attempted to pass the Arledge auto, hit the left rear fender of the auto instead, and slid across the street hitting a tree.

The car was then driven in the opposite direction and Circleville police apprehended the woman north of town. Mrs. Green was released after paying the fines.

Philadelphian Files 104 Tax Forms For 1947

PHILADELPHIA, May 5—The Quaker City lays claim today to the world's champion income taxpayer.

The U. S. Internal Revenue office reported that the tax champ filed 104 separate returns for 1947.

This is how he did it: A freight unloader, he earned $4400 last year working for 51 employers in 22 cities and seven states. Every time a job ended, he got from his employer a Form W-2, showing how much he was paid and how much tax was withheld.

By the first of January, he had 104 W-2 forms.

So, he simply filled in the blanks on each of the 104 forms, and mailed the whole batch to the revenue office.

He got his "reward" today for his pains—a refund of more than $100. The Internal Revenue office identified the tax champ only as a father of three children.

Mother Of 2 Seeks Divorce

Petition to end a five-year-old marriage to Robert Hoover has been lodged in Pickaway County common pleas court by Betty Hoover, mother of two minor children, ages 4 and 17 months.

Since their marriage Oct. 15, 1942 in Ashville, the plaintiff's petition says Hoover has been guilty of gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty.

In the petition it is claimed Hoover failed to provide for the plaintiff and on several occasions struck her. She now wants custody of the children and possession of the home and furnishings.

Mrs. Hoover also is asking the court to grant her alimony and support for herself and the children.

Ohio Milk Price Shows Decline

COLUMBUS, May 5—The price paid Ohio farmers for milk delivered wholesale during March showed a seasonal decline but still was well above the price paid a year previous.

The Ohio monthly dairy report said today that the March average for 3.5 percent butterfat milk was $4.65, a decline of 12 cents from February but 64 cents above the price paid in March, 1947.

Producers shipping milk to fluid dealers in the 21 principal Ohio fluid markets received an average of $5.01 for 3.5 percent milk delivered in March. The price was 19 cents less than in February but was 69 cents higher than during March, 1947.

Ohio milk manufacturers paid $4.08 for 3.5 percent milk in March, a decrease of only four cents from the February average and 48 cents above the price paid in March, 1947.

The quantity of milk received daily in March at the 21 fluid markets averaged 179 pounds per producer, or 15 pounds less than a year ago.

Papers filed by Earl Kedrick, executor, showed $13,500 in real estate, $6,964.88 in accounts receivable and the remainder in money and personal goods.

Estate appraisers were Nelson Baker, Wayne Martin and Elmon Richards.

Inventory and appraisal papers filed on the Mary J. Wilson estate set total value at $12,588.13. The record was entered by Paul E. Winn, administrator.

Real estate was appraised at $5,973.45, accounts receivable and other credits—$6,484.68 and the remainder in personal goods. Appraisers were Wayne Hoover, Ralph Stevenson and Sam Scott.

Sprayers Hit State Apple Crop

Codling Moth Control Cited

COLUMBUS, May 5—Sprayers or dusters moving through Ohio orchards when most of the blossom petals have fallen are putting on one of the most important protective coatings so that consumers can have big, red, unblemished apples next winter. The calyx cup spray puts a bit of arsenic in the path of any codling moth larva which attempts to set up housekeeping in an apple.

T. H. Parks, extension entomologist, Ohio State university, says most Ohio orchard owners use a combination of sulphur and arsenate of lead to defeat the codling moth.

This entomologist recommends flotation sulphur, wettable sulphur, or sulphur paste for Ohio orchards in preference to dry lime-sulphur which had been commonly used in past years.

A SECOND poisoned luncheon for the codling moth is applied 10 days after the calyx cup spray. This second spray contains a little less sulphur but the same amount of lead arsenate as the calyx cup spray. It is called the first cover spray and helps control apple scab and curculio as well as the codling moth.

Parks explains that control of codling moth depends upon applying sprays or dusts in time so the larvae cannot nibble on a fruit without being killed by poison.

Many mature apples have tiny red dots on their outer surface, and those dots mark spots where codling moth larvae almost forced an entrance.

Service Director Tells Council City Needs Roller, Better Lights

Service Director Joseph Rooney told Circleville city council Tuesday night his department needed a new street roller.

The director handed council a letter from the Gallion Iron Works of Gallion which was in regard to obtaining parts for the roller now owned by the city.

The Gallion firm said Circleville's roller was 10 years outmoded and no parts were available. They estimated it would cost the city about $2,500 to overhaul the roller.

Rooney said he could purchase a new one for about $2,600, or the large roller for $4,410 from a firm in Columbus.

THE DIRECTOR'S recommendation was referred to the service committee for further study.

In a report on the city's traffic light situation, Rooney said he and a representative from the Cross-Hines Signal Co. in Columbus made an inspection here and recommended a long-range program of installing a uniform set of lights throughout the city.

into the apple before dying. Even those sting marks lower the sale price of the fruit.

Ohio county agricultural agents will provide copies of the Spray Calendar supplement which gives directions for mixing sprays and for preparing dusts to protect all varieties of fruits.

Council already has authorized the purchase of a new traffic light and two new control mechanisms. Cross-Hines can supply the light for $169.46 and the mechanisms for a figure over $200 in six to 10 weeks.

Rooney wants immediate repair work done on lights at Scioto and Mound streets and Main and Scioto streets.

He also pointed out to council that several lights in town were not in conformance with the state law. The statute calls for a red light at the top, amber in the middle and a green light on the bottom of the signal.

Ray Cook moved the matter be referred to the service committee which was seconded by Boyd Horn. Other council members agreed.

Cop Doffs Pants On Busy Corner

CAMDEN, N. J., May 5—Patrolman Russell Young didn't have time to consult any book of etiquette on this one.

His trousers caught fire along a main boulevard in Camden. Traffic was heavy, both vehicular and pedestrian.

Young didn't hesitate. Off came the trousers as the young policeman suffered embarrassment and a slight chill, but escaped serious injury.

The trousers were set ablaze when a book of matches in a pocket became ignited.

4 Drivers Bump Into Each Other In Accident

Four Pickaway County drivers were involved in a minor traffic mixup on Route 22 seven miles west of Circleville about 5:30 p. m. Tuesday.

Those involved were Mrs. Florence Duvendek of Williamsport Route 2, Eugene Ballou of Circleville Route 3, Dessel Fyffe of Williamsport Route 2 and Jane Van Camp, also of Williamsport Route 2.

State Highway Patrolman C. E. Wells, who investigated the mishap, said the drivers told him Mrs. Duvendek had stopped in her side of the lane with her left hand signalling a left turn. Ballou was behind the Duvendek car, and the autos of Fyffe and Van Camp were travelling west approaching the Duvendek car.

Witnesses told the patrolman that Ballou apparently did not notice the car stopped ahead of him until too late. His auto swerved into the approaching Van Camp auto.

AFTER HITTING the approaching car, the Ballou machine reverted toward its original course, hit the Duvendek car in the rear, pushing it down an embankment into a ditch, and caroming again into the auto driven by Fyffe.

Patrolman Wells said none of the occupants of any of the cars were injured seriously.

Ballou is slated to tell his side

UNION MONEY ISSUE

THE Supreme Court has before it the test of constitutionality of that provision of the Taft-Hartley labor act which forbids spending of union money for political purposes. The courtroom scene climaxing the oral hearing on the case indicates that not all the justices are happy to have the hearing.

The defendant is the Congress of Industrial Organizations, which made no secret of deliberately violating the act in order to obtain a court test of its constitutionality. Angry words flared across the Supreme Court chamber when Justice Felix Frankfurter intimated that the case was railroad through the lower court.

Should it appear from the evidence that such was the case, the decision the CIO was so anxious to obtain before the presidential election probably would not be made. In such event the case probably would be thrown back to the lower court for rehearing, with no opinion at all from the Supreme Court on the basic issue of constitutionality involved.

Lengthy court litigation would cause much disappointment. The issue is an important one, and concerns an essential definition of political freedom for all the people, not just the CIO.

SOME LIKE IT HOT

WHY do persons in hot countries eat curries, hot tamales and other fiery articles of diet? They may not know it, but the spices from which these foods derive their heat are ground from seeds rich in B vitamins, apt to be lacking in ordinary tropical eatables. Also they stimulate the flow of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. All this is from Dr. Clarence A. Mills, in his book, "Climate Makes The Man".

This throws light on the wonder that had occurred to some people: why, if the inhabitants of hot countries like hot foods, do not the Eskimos go in strongly for ice-cream? Or would they, if they could?

SOVIET SYSTEM DANGER

ONE unconsidered fact about the Russians is that they are learning to read and write. As Edward Crankshaw's new book, "Russia and the Russians", brings out, 50 percent of the population now are manual, clerical, professional and intellectual workers. Under the tsars, 80 percent were illiterate peasants.

When a man can read, his rulers are always justified in fearing that he may come in contact with facts they do not wish him to know. An utter illiterate can always be screened from truth. In this lies peril for the Soviet system.

"We don't need television," says a neighbor. "We see too much now."

By MEL HEIMER

Mel Heimer

NEW YORK—In the course of a lengthy and reasonably honorable newspaper career, I have been exposed to an endless stream of free offers, bribes and gaudy promises in this town, and being human or nearly so, I have accepted some and turned others down. Free tickets to the ball games, I snatch willingly and avariciously from press agents and I would be more of a fool than I look if I threw away my passes to the theater.

Today my free offer is 20 dancing lessons and it comes in the form of a little gift card from the Fred Astaire studios on Park avenue, a comparatively new organization with a positive genius for publicity.

Mr. Tom Weatherly, who has thumped many a tub for theatrical producer Dwight Deere Wiman in the past and who occasionally joins hands with Mr. Wiman in producing, has been assigned the job of getting free space in the public prints for Mr. Astaire and he works in artful fashion. Tom already has lured me into a half-column description of his rumba factory by introducing me to one of his best-looking teachers and now he comes forth with his free dance lessons.

With my membership in the Gold Card club, I received a little letter from Charley Casanova, Mr. Astaire's executive vice president, promising that "Tom and I will select your teacher, Mel," and this final touch of ballyhoo in front of the carnival curtain likely is all that is needed to send me up to 487 Park in a hurry.

DANCING EVIDENTLY IS HERE TO STAY. Because I consider it a barbaric form of entertainment is no reason for me not to discuss it calmly.

Mr. Casanova's letter informs me it is surprising how business and professional people rarely consider "being a good dancer as valuable an asset as it really is," but what startles me personally along those lines is how really bad dancers in New York are.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

On May First, two parades marched the streets of New York: The parade of the loyal; the parade of the disloyal. The latter is an annual event, a feature of the international world revolution, a symbol of those who once believed in human liberty but have now become the agents, spies, provocateurs of Soviet Russia. The May First international celebration has often been accompanied by bloodshed and civil war. It has been adopted by Soviet Russia as its own. The loyal parade was a spontaneous expression of love for the United States of America by Americans.

It was astonishing how many marched in the loyal parade. For actually, most Americans are loyal to their country and require no special demonstration to assert the fact. They are loyal day by day. They are loyal to the traditions of this land without feeling the need for external manifestations. Yet they marched, if for no other reason than to establish that that other display was a weak and tawdry thing, an ugly excessiveness in a fair city.

But this also it demonstrated: The Communists were free to march and to announce their fealty to Stalin and their loyalty to Henry Wallace. Wonderful company Henry has got into! They shouted their hate for America and their love for Henry and he took no steps to repudiate the association. Poor, old Hank! Driven by ambition, he now plays the role similar to that of the lovers of Germany before the United States entered the war against Germany, the role of one, whose ambitions having been thwarted, uses any medium to project himself on the political arena.

There must be many in the United States who do not accept George Marshall's foreign policy as the acme of wisdom; but they also do not accept the leadership of the nation's official Fifth Column.

The May First parade of the Communists was, in New York, a Henry Wallace parade. The street-hawkers sold Wallace buttons and Wallace neckties—along with the usual Communist paraphernalia. It is increasingly difficult to believe that one reared in Iowa, of a Republican agricultural family, one who had held the second highest office in the land, could permit himself to be so used.

The loyal parade suffered one serious omission and it was noted. Not a single contingent appeared of the National Guard or of the armed forces of the United States.

Presumably, it is a continuation of that stupid policy, pursued by our State department, that the United States must go easy on American Communists while we continue to do business with their mother country. That policy was best expressed by James Byrnes, when he was Secretary of State, in reply to Representative Bartel J. Jonkman of Michigan:

"You must realize that it is a difficult matter to do wholesale firing of people merely because they belong to what is here a minority party, when the same party is the sole and dominant party of a great country with which I have serious and difficult diplomatic negotiations."

In a word, our government recognized that an American Communist could be protected, even in a spying job within the government itself, by Stalin.

The saddest sight on the highway is to see all the new cars going by, all of them for other fellows.

CHAPTER NINETEEN

HOW LONG John and Don talked Anne did not know. But gradually their voices drew other men to them until the verandah was well filled and the doorway to the living room crowded. She heard, with surprise again at the overall information Don had never revealed, his prodding of John, and she heard John answering. Presently the conversation became a duel between them, with Don pricking and goading, and John making a cool and able response. Hopkinson sat there beaming.

"That's the thing!" he exclaimed at last, unable to contain himself any longer. "That's the way for you to do the book, Mr. Doremus. Conversationally. Bring a city man in and convince him!"

"Convince a city man of what?" Helen had pushed through those standing in the doorway and appeared before them now with anger flashing in her eyes.

"After all, this is a party, not a forum!" she exclaimed. "And I object to your corraling all the men, John, I really do!"

She spoke in the plural but her glance singled out Don.

John rose. "I'm sorry, Helen. It just happened." He turned to Donald. "Why don't you stay over the week-end?" he asked. "Then we could go into this more fully."

"Thank you. I'd be delighted. But are you sure?"

"There's plenty of room in the guest house."

They like each other, Anne thought in happy triumph. But Helen was thinking. He's going to stay over. I'll see him. I'll talk to him—

Don awoke in the quiet of the guest cottage and lay for a while listening to the various sounds about him. Little scurrings on the roof. The sudden indignant squawk of a hen down in the chicken yard. The long, lonely call of a cow. The deep bark of Mac and Beth. Children's voices. It was another world. A world far removed from New York. No wonder he hadn't seen anything of Anne. If she liked this place since she liked it, she was as good as on another continent.

Anne. His face in the harsh morning light looked older than his years as his mind turned to her. Anne, in her azure gown last night, her hair a bright aureole for her lovely face— Didn't she know? No, he thought, she did not. While John's careful guard of himself in her presence gave him away to Don it was not apparent to Anne so long as she was still lost in her dream of Alec. Well, how would it all turn out? The answer hinged on Alec, of course. And perhaps on himself, too. Who could tell?

He lay for a while longer, thinking. Then he rose, showered, shaved and dressed. He put on the heavy wool pants, thick boots and sweater John had offered him the night before, and, with a borrowed mackinaw atop these, was soon ready for the short walk to the house.

He found John there, waiting. And Judy and Julia. Presently Gram appeared, then Anne. Henry, Julia said, had already eaten. He saw no sense to have breakfast an hour later on Sunday and invariably demanded his at the usual time. She explained this with smiling ease.

To Don, orphaned at six and brought up in lonely sensitivity in boarding school and summer camps, Stone House was a new experience. He had never known the permanence and security of a home anchorage. He had never known anything at all of family life. He had had no idea what it meant in the way of loyalty and co-operation—as well as the tug of personal differences. This morning he discovered all these things.

He saw the big room with its crackling fire and loaded table. He saw Annabel swishing in and out; Tom, Nick and old Auntie, like characters out of a book, hovering in the background; Gram, bustling and blunt, and holding on to an authority which she could not bear to let go; Henry, withdrawn and silent but a recognized tower of stubborn strength, nevertheless; John, taut as a wire beneath his air of repose and capability; Julia, her own ego submerged— Or was her serenity, her vigilance, her quiet tact and easy poise the full-blown emergence of her true self? He must think about that—And Anne.

What of Anne? He looked at her. Stranger that she was among them, Anne was making her own place here. Sounding her own note. Fitting in, belonging, arguing with the rest of them. For that was the common denominator under everything. They cared. There was a recognizable staunchness toward each other, toward the farm, toward the idea animating it, which bound them together in spite of minor surface warfare.

And then Helen appeared. She came in, ruffling the fragrant folds of her long, wine-colored housecoat, flashing her smile, and going straight to her own defense before Gram could organize an attack upon her.

"Surprise! Surprise! See what your boy friend has done, Anne. Actually gotten me down to a Sunday morning breakfast! Nothing like it has ever happened before in the history of Stone House. I hope you feel flattered, Don?"

He rose, with John, bowing slightly, his heavy-lidded eyes quizzical. "Should I feel flattered—or frightened?"

"And now you flatter me," she said, the color coming up slightly into her face. "You're seeing the farm this morning?" she asked, turning to John. "I thought I might go with you."

"We're walking."

"Well, I can walk."

"Come if you like, Helen, but we may be out two or three hours. If you get tired, no one is going to come back with you."

Helen made a face. "Gallant, isn't he? Are you going, Anne?"

"No."

"The party is definitely stag? Well, all right. Anne and I will have a hen party, then. When your cars burn, Don—"

He said, "Anne, be kind."

He went out, presently, with John, into the sparkling, snow-covered world. All morning they tramped about, Don not so much interested as curious. This John, with his grave face, his deliberate voice, his keen, intelligent eyes and his kindness, was, he soon saw, a part of the fields over which he walked. He belonged to them as well as they to him. He was a part of the woods and the streams and the rocks and the hills. And for the first time in his life Don knew envy.

For John, giving himself to the land in a love that made him willing to work without measurement of hours for a good over and above his own, received in return a real reason for living. Don had none. Don had fought for America because he had been ordered to and there was no escape with honor.

He had finished fighting with bitterness and disillusionment. And now he was existing without ambition or pride or any interest whatsoever in the country for which he had risked his life. He wished he had what John had, a continuity with the past and with the future, instead of this dead end. But he hadn't and he doubted if he ever could have.

They walked and they talked. Rather, John talked and Don listened. He listened because he was curious and also because Anne had asked him to listen. She had invited him here for this purpose. And as he listened, he came to see that John had achieved a richness and a simplicity in his days that could not be rivalled. He was putting on his property the mark of his own character, of his own genius and intelligence and sense of beauty. He was an artist, really, working with nature. And he was happy as a king is happy with the excitement of presiding over a realm in which he is free to work his own wonders.

"When a man owns land," Don heard him say, "he cares about the protection of his civil rights and so he cares about the protection of freedom and the preservation of democracy. But when he owns nothing, when he has only a vote and that vote can be bought by the highest bidder, democracy is in danger of extinction."

The newly organized Monrovia Garden Club held its May session in the home of Mrs. Dale Stubbs near Five Points.

Seventeen charter members and three new members answered roll call by naming their most successful plant. Mrs. Herman Porter, president, directed the business session. The "tulip" was selected as the club's flower.

Mrs. W. B. Johnson and Miss Bertha Jones of Williamsport, who were guests at the meeting, gave talks on plants, flowers and shrubs. They displayed some unusual flower arrangements and presented a gift flower to each member.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Joyce. The June 7 meeting will take place in the home of Mrs. William Snyder.

Mother's Day Program Marks DUV Meeting

The program presented Tuesday evening in the post room of Memorial hall by members of Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War was in observance of Mother's Day. Mrs. W. E. Pickens conducted the program and read quotations from Longfellow, Lincoln and Napoleon.

Mrs. O. C. King read an article entitled "Rock Me To Sleep". "Mother" was the title of a poem read by Mrs. James Trimmer. Two appropriate piano numbers were played by Mrs. Frank Webb. Miss Nellie Palm gave a reading pertaining to the theme of the meeting. In closing, Mrs. Webb read a humorous poem, "When Mother Scrubs".

Mrs. Irene Jenkins presided during the business hour. The group voted to donate $5 to the Cancer Research Fund.

Three Candidates Receive Degrees

Robert DeLong, worthy master, presided for the meeting of Salt Creek Valley Grange Tuesday evening with only a small representative group of Grangers in attendance due to election and the heavy rain.

First and second degrees were conferred upon Mr. and Mrs. Glenn McDaniels and Mrs. Orley Judy. Third and fourth degrees will be conferred on May 18. Billy Rihl sang several songs accompanied by Miss Gift Macklin at the piano.

It was announced the degree team of Salt Creek Valley has been invited to confer third and fourth degrees at the Clarksburg grange meeting June 14. A blouse contest will be staged at the first regular meeting in June. Refreshments were served by the May committee.

Dinner Party Marks Birthday

W. Harry Crow of Duvall was host at a dinner Tuesday evening in the Wardell Party home to a group of relatives and friends in observance of his birthday anniversary.

Places were laid for Mrs. Crow and Mr. and Mrs. William Barch of Duvall; Mr. and Mrs. Archie E. Shea and children, David and Susan, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Shea and Mrs. Ned Thacher of Columbus.

Those from Circleville were Mrs. Helen Gunning, Mrs.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Eli Hedges, Mrs. W. E. Adkins and son, Philip, of Logan street, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hedges and daughter of Columbus were recent guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gardner of Lancaster.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Bane and daughter, Mary Cheryl, and Mrs. Margaret Lanman have returned to their homes in Richmond, Ind., after being the guests for a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Davis and son, Jimmie, in their home Kingston Route 4.

Three Localites Attend Parley

Mrs. W. W. Robinson returned Tuesday to her home on Route 3 from Wilmette, Ill., where she attended the 40th annual Baha'i convention.

Mrs. Blanche Y. Mutschman of Circleville also attended the week-end sessions. Mrs. J. O. Eagleson attended three days, leaving on Sunday for Escanaba, Mich., where she plans to visit her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Eagleson, for several weeks.

Representatives from all states and territories, including Alaska and Hawaii, participated in the convention activities. Guests were in attendance from Central and South America and Japan. Pioneer teachers from all countries of Western Europe were present.

It was told during the convention the number of countries where the teachings of the Baha'i faith have been implanted is now 91. Literature now is being translated and printed in 51 languages.

James E. McDonald and Mrs. Morgan M. Moore.

Miss Dunton Returns Home

Miss Florence Dunton has returned to her home, South Court street, after a seven-week vacation. She went to Greenfield, Mass., where she joined her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Sewell Dunton, for a motor trip to Daytona, Fla., where they spent a month before returning to Greenfield.

Mrs. Harry Moore Hostess To Club

Members of the Friendship Club met Tuesday evening with Mrs. Harry Moore in her home on West High street. Mrs. Fred Duncan was in charge of a business meeting and received reports from various standing committees.

Refreshments were served by

CAMPOREE DUE JUNE 11-12

3 Major Scouting Events Set Up For Local Youths

Three major outings have been planned for Boy Scouts and Scouters in Pickaway County for the Spring camping season, according to arrangements made by the planning committee at their last meeting.

On May 23 the district Scout district picnic is to be held at Camp Kluges, the new Senior Scout camp near South Bloomingville in Hocking County. The picnic will be held primarily for the Pickaway Scout's mothers.

June 11 and 12 will be the Pickaway District Camporee, to be held on the banks of the Scioto river south of Circleville for nearly 250 Pickaway Scouts and leaders.

June 13 is the date for Pickaway County troops to begin camp at Camp Lazarus near Delaware.

Most important of the three

City To Ask Trustees Assist Drainage Study

Circleville Township trustees and Pickaway County commissioners will be called to appear before Circleville city council at next meeting to study a drainage problem at the General Electric plant site and the Smith ditch.

Councilman Ray Anderson said he believed the city should not carry all the load in repairing the drainage ills and believes the county or township should help bear the expenses.

Inadequate drains now are the cause of flooding conditions in the east end of town from water pouring off the plant's 15 acre site. Councilmen are worrying about future conditions when most of the area is under roof which would cause the water to run faster.

On the J. I. Smith property in the Heffner addition, Service Director Rooney said work soon will begin in cleaning the storm sewers. Recent flood conditions saw water to back up and cause damage to homes in that area, Anderson declared.

For the support given me which has resulted in my nomination, I am deeply grateful and wish to assure all of my thanks and appreciation.

HENRY T. McCRADY

events is the Camporee, which is to begin at 1 p. m. June 11 and continue through until 4 p. m. June 12.

THE CAMPOREE is the first testing camp trip of the season for Pickaway County Scouts, and awards for their knowledge of the outdoors and ability to "be prepared" for outdoor living.

Seven events have been arranged for the trip, each of which is to train the Scout mind to the preservation out of doors. The list of events are compassing pacing, nature study, follow the trail, string burning, knot tying, signalling and judging.

Individual awards will be given every Scout who satisfies all requirements in the Camporee and who is able to get the recommendation of his Scoutmaster, every patrol which successfully completes all the events will receive a blue streamer and each patrol which successfully completes five of the events will receive a white streamer.

Results of the recent Scout finance drive were given at the last meeting, and the records show that only $1,559.78 of the $4,000 goal set by Scouters was donated Pickaway County troops.

Harvey Fraser Jr., Pickaway County field secretary, said that the limited funds this year would not limit the activities of Scouting in the county, but that next year the take would necessarily have to be larger for Scouting to make a "comeback" here.

Ann Downing Paces Local IQ Examination

Results on the recent eighth grade comprehensive intelligence test in Circleville high school show that Ann Downing of 223 North Scioto street, led her classmates in scoring with a total of 171 out of a possible 200 points.

Others scoring high in the test were Robert Moeller with 156, Janet Grant with 145, Margery Greiner with 143, Jacqueline Smith with 140, Nancy Goodchild with 138, Roger Bennington with 137, David Parks with 136, Gene Clifton with 133 and Bonnie Coleman with 132.

Certificates of merit are to be given the first 25 ranking students in the test, and those who are to receive the awards in addition to the above named students are Paul Rooney, Charles Magill, Gordon Blake, Betty Shirey, Patricia Cain, Helen Mogan, Jordan Lefko, Marjorie Rinehart, John Laman, Robert Chalfin, Donald

Machinist Saved By Fellow Worker

CHICAGO, May 5—A Milwaukee machinist whose life was being crushed out by a huge steel beam that collapsed and pinned him to the floor owed his life today to the mighty strength of a fellow worker.

The huge beam collapsed as the crane it supported was moving a 1,000-pound machine at the Metzger, Barbara Saylers, James George, Dudley Morris, Kenneth Weaver and Carolyn Callihan.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Karin' to Go

The liver should pour out about 2 pints of bile juice into your bowels every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels. Then gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk. It takes those mild, gentle Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those 2 pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Get a package today. Effective in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills, 33¢ at any drugstore.

Anchor Smelting and Refining Co., yesterday and pinned down Paul Falque, 33, the machinist.

James Brown, seized a six-by-six timber and with a mighty heave succeeded in raising the beam long enough to permit another worker to pull Falque free.

Falque was taken to the Cook County hospital suffering from possible spine and skull fractures but was given a good chance to recover.

Because of the different usages of the word "mist," which, in the official British meaning is a light fog, and in the United States vernacular a synonym for a drizzle, the weather services of the United States have not used the term in official observations and reports since 1939.

Music inspired by events that are part of the May tradition will highlight the Cities Service "Highways In Melody" program, starring conductor Paul Lavallo and baritone Mac Morgan, Friday at 8 p. m. over NBC.

In recognition of Mother's Day, May 9, singing star Mac Morgan, accompanied by the glee club, will sing "Mother O' Mine" by Frank Tours. He also will be heard with the glee club in "May Day Carol," a traditional English folk song arranged by Deems Taylor.

The orchestra, conducted by Mr. Lavallo, will send birthday greetings to Irving Berlin by playing his "Always" and "Remember."

Ted Malone will honor all mothers, and especially Gold Star Mothers, when he broadcasts a "Calling All Mothers" program in co-operation with the Fraternal Order of the Eagles Friday at 11:45 a. m. over ABC.

During the broadcast Colonel Francis Gabreski, World War II ace and a life member of the Eagles in Oil City, Pa., will present a bouquet to Mrs. Joseph S. Hagerty, Atlantic City, N. J., national president of the American Gold Star Mothers.

Simultaneously in ABC stations all over the country presidents of local Eagle chapters
